the routledge handbook on the american dream volume 2 explores the social economic and cultural aspects of the american dream in both theory and reality in the twenty first century this collection of essays brings together leading scholars from a range of fields to further develop the themes and issues explored in the first volume the concept of the american dream first expounded by james truslow adams in the epic of america in 1931 is at once both ubiquitous and difficult to define the term perfectly captures the hopes of freedom opportunity and upward social mobility invested in the nation however the american dream appears increasingly illusory in the face of widening inequality and apparent lack of opportunity particularly for the poor and ethnic or otherwise marginalized minorities in the united states as such an understanding of the american dream through both theoretical analyses and empirical studies whether qualitative or quantitative is crucial to understanding contemporary america like the first volume of the routledge handbook on the american dream this collection will be of great interest to students and researchers in a range of fields in the humanities and social sciences an up close look at the education arms race of after school learning academic competitions and the perceived failure of even our best schools to educate children beyond soccer leagues music camps and drama lessons today s youth are in an education arms race that begins in elementary school in hyper education pawan dhingra uncovers the growing world of high achievement education and the after school learning centers spelling bees and math competitions that it has spawned it is a world where immigrant families vie with other americans to be at the head of the class putting in hours of studying and testing in order to gain a foothold in the supposed meritocracy of american public education a world where enrichment centers like kumon have seen 194 percent growth since 2002 and target children as young as three even families and teachers who avoid after school academics are getting swept up drawing on over 100 in depth interviews with teachers tutors principals children and parents dhingra delves into the why people participate in this phenomenon and examines how schools families and communities play their part moving past tiger mom stereotypes he addresses why asian american and white families practice what he calls hyper education and whether or not it makes sense by taking a behind the scenes look at the scripps national spelling bee other national competitions and learning centers dhingra shows why good schools good grades and good behavior are seen as not enough for high achieving students and their parents and why the education arms race is likely to continue to expand an anthropologist uses spelling bees as a lens to examine the unique and diverse traits of generation z and why they are destined for success at first glance generation z youth born after 1997 seems to be made up of anxious overachievers hounded by tiger moms and constantly tracked on social media one would think that competitors in the national spelling bee the most popular brain sport in america would be the worst off counterintuitively anthropologist shalini shankar argues that far from being simply overstressed and overscheduled gen z spelling bee competitors are learning crucial twenty first century skills from their high powered lives displaying a sophisticated understanding of self promotion self direction and social mobility drawing on original ethnographic research including interviews with participants judges and parents shankar examines the outsize impact of immigrant parents and explains why gen z kids are on a path to success
