connors provides a history of composition and its pedagogical approaches to form genre and correctness he shows where many of the today s practices and assumptions about writing come from and he translates what our techniques and theories of teaching have said over time about our attitudes toward students language and life connors locates the beginning of a new rhetorical tradition in the mid nineteenth century and from there he discusses the theoretical and pedagogical innovations of the last two centuries as the result of historical forces social needs and cultural shifts this important book proves that american composition rhetoric is a genuine rhetorical tradition with its own evolving theria and praxis as such it is an essential reference for all teachers of english and students of american education edited by four nationally recognized leaders of composition scholarship composition rhetoric and disciplinarity asks a fundamental question can composition and rhetoric as a discipline continue its historical commitment to pedagogy without sacrificing equal attention to other areas such as research and theory in response contributors to the volume address disagreements about what it means to be called a discipline rather than a profession or a field elucidate tensions over the defined breadth of composition and rhetoric and consider the roles of research and responsibility as composition and rhetoric shifts from field to discipline outlining a field with a complex and unusual formation story composition rhetoric and disciplinarity employs several lenses for understanding disciplinarity theory history labor and pedagogy and for teasing out the implications of disciplinarity for students faculty institutions and composition and rhetoric itself collectively the chapters speak to the intellectual and embodied history leading to this point to questions about how disciplinarity is and might be understood especially with regard to composition and rhetoric to the curricular conceptual labor and other sites of tension inherent in thinking about composition and rhetoric as a discipline and to the implications of composition and rhetoric s disciplinarity for the future contributors linda adler kassner elizabeth h boquet christiane donahue whitney douglas doug downs heidi estrem kristine hansen doug hesse sandra jamieson neal lerner jennifer helene maher barry maid jaime armin mejía carolyn r miller kelly myers gwendolynne reid liane robertson rochelle rodrigo dawn shepherd kara taczak the sage handbook of rhetorical studies surveys the latest advances in rhetorical scholarship synthesizing theories and practices across major areas of study in the field and pointing the way for future studies edited by andrea a lunsford and associate editors kirt h wilson and rosa a eberly the handbook aims to introduce a new generation of students to rhetorical study and provide a deeply informed and ready resource for scholars currently working in the field excerpt from english composition and rhetoric a manual numerous attempts have been made and are still making to methodize instruction in english composition in these attempts two distinct efforts are made for the benefit of the pupils to cultivate in them a copious fund of expression and to render more delicate their discrimination of good and ill effects as regards increasing the pupils fund of expression the english teacher can do comparatively little the reason is obvious the command of language is a grand total resulting from the practice of a life a small fraction of that total is all that can grow up within the limits of a course of english composition with respect to the other aim the discrimination between good and bad in expression the case is different much of the necessary instruction can be condensed into principles and may be impressed by carefully chosen examples the teacher is here a trainer and can impart in a short compass what without him would be acquired slowly if at all it is this accordingly that i account his principal vocation about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works marietta hubbard s composition rhetoric offers a profound exploration of rhetorical theory and practice aligned with the pedagogical currents of its time the literary style is didactic and informative reflecting the scholarly emphasis on the formal aspects of writing and oratory during the era in which it was authored positioned within the rich tradition of english rhetorical education the work serves as a historical lens into the teaching methodologies and literary standards of earlier centuries making it an intriguing subject for those interested in the development of composition instruction and the evolution of written communication marietta hubbard in collaboration with stratton d brooks penned composition rhetoric as a testament to the significance of rhetoric in educational curricula hubbard s own academic journey and instructional experiences may have been influential in shaping the comprehensive and methodical approach taken in this book it encapsulates the authors dedication to the democratization of rhetoric perhaps reflecting the aspirations of its era to furnish students with the tools for articulate and effective self expression academics educators and students of literary history will find composition rhetoric an invaluable resource this work now thoughtfully republished by digicat publishing affords contemporary readership the opportunity to engage with historical pedagogical thought and rhetoric s timeless influence on the art of writing it deserves an esteemed place among the classics of language arts education commended for its clarity educational merit and contribution to our understanding of literacy s past the 1996 meeting of the rhetoric society of america commemorated the 25th anniversary of the publication of lloyd bitzer and edwin black s the prospect of rhetoric in so doing the conference gave scholars and teachers in various disciplines from all over the country the opportunity to talk about new prospects for rhetoric the conferees were asked to present their vision of rhetoric studies or to demonstrate what rhetoric studies could be by example their essays presented in this volume illustrate a discipline at odds over the future and demonstrate the continued influence and vitality of other papers on the same subject published some 25 years ago this is a reproduction of the original artefact generally these books are created from careful scans of the original this allows us to preserve the book accurately and present it in the way the author intended since the original versions are generally quite old there may occasionally be certain imperfections within these reproductions we re happy to make these classics available again for future generations to enjoy challenges the traditional rhetorical canon kuypers king and their contributors explore the conception of rhetoric of eleven key american rhetoricians through analyses of their life s work each chapter provides a sense of that scholar s conception of rhetoric be it through criticism theory or teaching the communication discipline often highlights the work of others outside the discipline however it rarely acclaims the work of its own critics teachers and theorists in this collection the essays explore the innate mode of perception that guided the rhetorical understanding of the early critics in so doing this work dispels the myth that the discipline of speech communication was spawned from a monolithic and rigid center that came to be called neo aristotelianism scholars and researchers involved with the history of rhetoric rhetorical criticism and theory and american public address uill find this title to be a necessary addition to their collection unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 we have not used ocr optical character recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 in books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc we have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy reinventing with theory in rhetoric and writing studies collects original scholarship that takes up and extends the practices of inventive theorizing that characterize sharon crowley s body of work including sixteen chapters by established and emerging scholars and an interview with crowley the book shows that doing theory is a contingent and continual rhetorical process that is indispensable for understanding situations and their potential significance and for discovering the available means of persuasion for crowley theory is a basic building block of rhetoric produced by and within specific times and locations as a means of opening other ways of believing or acting doing theory in this sense is the practice of surveying the common sense of the community doxa and discovering the available means of persuasion invention the ultimate goal of doing theory is not to prescribe certain actions but to ascertain what options exist for rhetors to see the world differently to discover new possibilities for thought and action and thereby to effect change in the world the scholarship collected in reinventing with theory in rhetoric and writing studies takes crowley s notion of theory as an invitation to develop new avenues for believing and acting by reinventing the understanding of theory and its role in the field this collection makes an important contribution to scholarship in rhetorical studies and writing studies it will be valuable to scholars teachers and students interested in diverse theoretical directions in rhetoric and writing studies as well as in race gender and disability theories religious rhetorics digital rhetoric and the history of rhetoric publication supported in part by the texas tech university humanities center contributors jason barrett fox geoffrey clegg kirsti cole joshua daniel wariya diane davis rebecca disrud bre garrett catherine c gouge debra hawhee matthew heard joshua c hilst david g holmes bruce horner william b lalicker jennifer lin lemesurier james c mcdonald timothy oleksiak dawn penich thacker j blake scott victor j vitanza susan wyche
