this collection of essays aims to highlight the importance that senhor has had in bringing an african perspective about africa to the west topics covered include senhor s ideology his poetic method and the influence of western religion on his work

this book in the light of words   la lumi re des mots is a testimony to the power of language its ability to heal to confront to awaken and to console the poems oscillate between stark social commentary and transcendental musings they do not shy away from darkness but dare to dwell in it in search of the sacred light within the english section often reflects a stark reality in the world falls apart we encounter a bleak portrait of societal collapse in a piece of furniture a seemingly mundane table becomes a living relic of memory and intergenerational love in ignorant knowledge there s a poignant indictment of the very institutions meant to educate us and a critique of modernity s obsession with data over wisdom the french poems bring in a different cadence at times mystic at times melancholic qu'il demeure qu'il s' coule is a lyrical meditation on impermanence and acceptance un monde en d s quilibre explores the moral inertia of modernity and its catastrophic consequences la femme m decin disparue echoes the english counterpart speaking to gendered violence with haunting restraint aluminium was one of most cartelised industries in the international economic panorama of the 20th century born following the discovery of electrolytic smelting process in 1886 this industry even in its infancy established a cartel which characterised its history until nearly 1980 managers of the aluminium industry from various historical eras and countries shared the same vision about the development of their industry to keep prices as stable as possible in order to encourage expansions and to provide return on investments price instability which characterised the trade of other commodities was unknown to the aluminium industry this book neither argues that cartels are fundamentally evil nor attempts to demonstrate that cartels are optimal business organisations it instead provides an in depth and frank analysis of the internal working of industrial organisations and of the interplay between cartels and political powers and institutions the international aluminium cartel offers explanations for the construction and collapse of cartels descriptions of their operations and an historical interpretation of their experiences incorporating information gleaned from a unique collection of private and public archives from several countries this unique study will appeal to a wide variety of readers including academics interested in industrial and business history
