this edited volume seeks to enhance our understanding of the concepts of space and place in the study of digital work it argues that while digital work is often presented as placeless work always takes place somewhere with a certain degree of local embeddedness contributors to this collection address restructuring processes that bring about delocalised digital work and point out limitations to dislocation inherent in the work itself and the social relations or the physical artefacts involved exploring the dynamics of global value chains and shifts in the international division of labour this book explores the impact these have on employment and working conditions workers agency in shaping and coping with changes in work and the new competencies needed in virtual organisational environments combining different disciplinary perspectives the volume teases out the spatial aspects of digital work at different scales ranging from team level to that of global production networks semonche provides a wealth of information on news libraries and the managerial concerns of news librarians the volume is organized in several broad sections devoted to the history and mission of news libraries managerial issues and approaches news libraries and computer assisted journalism special concerns of news libraries and profiles of particular types of news libraries chapters within each section address more particular topics and provide valuable guidance on how to manage libraries and implement new technology the volume concludes with a more extensive glossary and an annotated bibliography of books and articles published between 1985 and 1993 while theoretical matters are considered this reference is largely a ready source of practical knowledge for all types of news librarians since the late eighteenth century academic engagement with political economic social cultural and spatial changes in our cities has been dominated by theoretical frameworks crafted with reference to just a small number of cities in the global north this volume seeks to redress that balance and focuses on theoretical engagements with cities beyond the west this two volume book published open access brings together leading scholars of constitutional law from twenty nine european countries to revisit the role of national constitutions at a time when decision making has increasingly shifted to the european and transnational level it offers important insights into three areas first it explores how constitutions reflect the transfer of powers from domestic to european and global institutions secondly it revisits substantive constitutional values such as the protection of constitutional rights the rule of law democratic participation and constitutional review along with constitutional court judgments that tackle the protection of these rights and values in the transnational context e g with regard to the data retention directive the european arrest warrant the esm treaty and eu and imf austerity measures the responsiveness of the ecj regarding the above rights and values along with the standard of protection is also assessed thirdly challenges in the context of global governance in relation to judicial review democratic control and accountability are examined on a broader level the contributors were also invited to reflect on what has increasingly been described as the erosion or twilight of constitutionalism or a shift to a thin version of the rule of law democracy and judicial review in the context of europeanisation and globalisation processes the national reports are complemented by a separately published comparative study which identifies a number of broader trends and challenges that are shared across several member states and warrant wider discussion the research for this publication and the comparative study were carried out within the framework of the erc funded project the role and future of national constitutions in european and global governance the book is aimed at scholars researchers judges and legal advisors working on the interface between national constitutional law and eu and transnational law the extradition cases are also of interest to scholars and practitioners in the field of criminal law anneli albi is professor of european law at the university of kent united kingdom samo bardutzky is assistant professor of constitutional law at the university of ljubljana slovenia

the latina o population constitutes the largest racial and ethnic minority group in the u s and is disproportionately under represented in college and in graduate programs this is the first book specifically to engage with the absence of latin as in doctoral studies it proposes educational and administrative strategies to open up the pipeline and institutional practices to ensure access support models and training for latin as aspiring to the ph d the under education of latina o youth begins early given that by twelfth grade half will stop out or be pushed out of high school and only seven percent will complete a college degree it is not surprising so few enter graduate studies when latina o students do enter higher education few attend those colleges or universities that are gateways to graduate degrees regardless of the type of higher education institution they attend latinas os often encounter social and academic isolation unaffordable costs and lack of support this historic under representation has created a vicious cycle of limited social and economic mobility there is a paucity of the latina o faculty and leaders whom research shows are essential for changing campus climate and influencing institutions to adapt to the needs of a changing student body as a result latina o graduate students often have few role models advocates or mentors and limited support for their research agendas by reviewing the pipeline from kindergarten through university this book provides the needed data and insights to effect change for policy makers administrators faculty and staff and material for reflection for aspiring latina o ph d s on the paths they have taken and the road ahead the book then addresses the unique experiences and challenges faced by latina os in doctoral programs and offers guidance for students and those responsible for them chapters cover issues of gender and generational differences the role of culture in the graduate school mentorship pursuing research and professional development opportunities for latina os the book closes with the voices of by latina o students who are currently pursuing or recently completed their doctoral degree these narratives describe their cultural and educational journeys providing insight into their personal and professional experiences these stories bring alive the graduate experience for anyone interested in successful recruitment retention and graduation of latina o doctoral students an inspiration and guidance to those aspiring to the doctorate
