can human rights be enforced against corporations this work analyses different enforcement mechanisms it examines one of the most powerful instruments the alien tort claims act atca litigation in the united states the atca has been used as one of the chief weapons in a 21st century battle over corporate responsibility in the age of globalization for instance the atca has been invoked to seek compensation from german companies in respect of forced labor during the holocaust further examples include claims relating to genocide against a canadian company forced labor claims against a us company and numerous others the atca litigation often refers to the law of nations but do the us courts interpret this term consistently with other accepted interpretations of international law the short answer to that question is no however in the absence of enforceable international law mechanisms this lacuna needs to be filled domestic litigation of matters that are inherently transnational in character as occurs in atca human rights litigation represents a viable mechanism to enforce human rights
