the williamson road area which was annexed by the city of roanoke in 1949 was originally a part of botetourt county and thereafter of the northern part of roanoke county a place apart traces the history places and families of the williamson road the book begins with various sketches of roanoke valley pioneers and early land owners the second part of the volume continues with sketches of families that arrived during the late 18th or early 19th century including barren bushong campbell cannaday fellers garst harshbarger huntingdon nelms nininger oliver petty read rudd stokes watts and williamson community leaders associated with the roanoke valley s recent history are treated elsewhere in the book the book argues that the category of mother is distinct from the category of woman and that many of the problems mothers face social economic political cultural psychological and so forth are specific to women s role and identity as mothers indeed mothers are oppressed under patriarchy as women and as mothers consequently mothers need a feminism of their own one that positions mothers concerns as the starting point for a theory and politic of empowerment o reilly terms this new mode of feminism matricentric feminism and the book explores how it is represented and experienced in theory activism and practice the chapter on maternal theory examines the central theoretical concepts of maternal scholarship while the chapter on activism considers the twenty first century motherhood movement feminist mothering is likewise examined as the specific practice of matricentric feminism and this chapter discusses various theories and strategies on and for maternal empowerment matricentric feminism is also examined in relation to the larger field of academic feminism here o reilly persuasively shows how matricentric feminism has been marginalized in academic feminism and considers the reasons for such exclusion and how such may be challenged and changed this work explores matrophobia the fear not of one s mother or of motherhood but of becoming one s mother in past and present white feminist analyses of motherhood and mothering by tracing white second wave feminism s strategic choice to organize first as sisters then as daughters o brien hallstein argues matrophobia became embedded in past and continues to linger in contemporary feminist analyses as a result contemporary analyses reveal crucially important but limited understandings of contemporary motherhood and mothering this important work concludes that matrophobia can be reduced and eliminated by reorienting analyses to mutual responsiveness between sisters and daughters second and third wave feminists the 2nd edition includes a new preface that considers how matricentric feminism in positioning mothering as a verb affords a gender neutral understanding of motherwork and allows for an appreciation of how motherwork is deeply gendered and how this may be challenged and changed through empowered mothering the book argues that the category of mother is distinct from the category of woman and that many of the problems mothers face are specific to women s role and identity as mothers indeed mothers are oppressed under patriarchy as women and as mothers consequently mothers need a feminism of their own one that positions mothers concerns as the starting point for a theory and politic of empowerment o reilly terms this new mode of feminism matricentric feminism and the book explores how it is represented and experienced in theory activism and practice
