a thought provoking examination of death dying and the afterlife prominent scholars present their most recent work about mortuary rituals grief and mourning genocide cyclical processes of life and death biomedical developments and the materiality of human corpses in this unique and illuminating book interrogating our most common practices surrounding death the authors ask such questions as how does the state wrest away control over the dead from bereaved relatives why do many mourners refuse to cut their emotional ties to the dead and nurture lasting bonds is death a final condition or can human remains acquire agency the book is a refreshing reassessment of these issues and practices a source of theoretical inspiration in the study of death with contributions written by an international team of experts in their fields a companion to the anthropology of death is presented in six parts and covers such subjects as governing the dead in guatemala after death communications adcs in north america cryonic suspension in the secular age blood and organ donation in china the fragility of biomedicine and more a companion to the anthropology of death is a comprehensive and accessible volume and an ideal resource for senior undergraduate and graduate students in courses such as anthropology of death medical anthropology anthropology of violence anthropology of the body and political anthropology written by leading international scholars in their fields a comprehensive survey of the most recent empirical research in the anthropology of death a fundamental critique of the early 20th century founding fathers of the anthropology of death cross cultural texts from tribal and industrial societies the collection is of interest to anyone concerned with the consequences of the state and massive violence on life and death modern archaeology has amassed considerable evidence for the disposal of the dead through burials cemeteries and other monuments drawing on this body of evidence this book offers fresh insight into how early human societies conceived of death and the afterlife the twenty seven essays in this volume consider the rituals and responses to death in prehistoric societies across the world from eastern asia through europe to the americas and from the very earliest times before developed religious beliefs offered scriptural answers to these questions compiled and written by leading prehistorians and archaeologists this volume traces the emergence of death as a concept in early times as well as a contributing factor to the formation of communities and social hierarchies and sometimes the creation of divinities food has played a major role in funerary and memorial practices since the dawn of the human race in the ancient roman world for example it was common practice to build channels from the tops of graves into the crypts themselves and mourners would regularly pour offerings of food and drink into these conduits to nourish the dead while they waited for the afterlife funeral cookies wrapped with printed prayers and poems meant to comfort mourners became popular in victorian england while in china japan and korea it is customary to offer food not only to the bereaved but to the deceased with ritual dishes prepared and served to the dead dying to eat is the first interdisciplinary book to examine the role of food in death bereavement and the afterlife the contributors explore the phenomenon across cultures and religions investigating topics including tombstone rituals in buddhism catholicism and shamanism the role of death in the moroccan approach to food and the role of funeral casseroles and church cookbooks in the southern united states this innovative collection not only offers food for thought regarding the theories and methods behind these practices but also provides recipes that allow the reader to connect to the argument through material experience illuminating how cooking and corpses both transform and construct social rituals dying to eat serves as a fascinating exploration of the foodways of death and bereavement until about 1870 the sa dan toraja of sulawesi had little contact with the outside world several factors of which the introduction of the coffee growing and the coffee trade was chronologically one of the first have changed their life as a megalithic people enmeshed in mythology and ritual drastically the conversion of nearly half the population to christianity after 1945 brought a particularly profound change in sa dan toraja society old customs in particular as regards funerary rites have a tenacious life however in autochthonous toraja culture rituals are the main focus of attention they are divided into ceremonies of the east and those of the west the former associated with sunrise and life comprise feasts of the living yellow and white are the colours belonging to these joyous festivals the west is associated with sunset death and darkness the main colour connected with it is black so death rituals are referred to a night ceremonies in time these death feasts grew more and more complicated finally overshadowing the festivals of the east death is the ultimate truth of life all religions consider birth and death in the same package and have given importance to death rites and ancestor worship with death the non existence begins it is something common in all religions the central concern of all philosophies is not life but death man knows that life is finite and the future beyond life is unknown so it is natural to ask is there any life after death if yes it is certainly a life without a body death is the end of physical existence but it is not the end of a person so death rites and ancestor worship arose in all societies ancestor worship is the belief that at the death of an individual his her social personality is not erased but rather transformed the basis of ancestor worship lies in this belief found in all human societies it also creates a distance between the living and the dead while commemorating the dead and paying respect to them critical independent voices are seldom found within the citadels of international finance that s what makes nomi prins unique during fifteen years as an executive at skyscraping banks like goldman sachs bear stearns and lehman brothers prins never lost her ability to see the broader picture she walked away from the game in 2002 out of disgust with the burgeoning corporate corruption just as its magnitude was becoming clear to the public in this acclaimed exposé named one of the best books of 2004 by the economist barron s library journal and the progressive prins provides fascinating firsthand details of day to day life in the financial leviathans with all its rich absurdities she demonstrates how the much publicized fraud of recent years resulted from deregulation that trashed the rules of responsible corporate behavior and not simply the unbridled greed of a select few while the stock market roared on the back of phony balance sheets executives made out like bandits and congress looked the other way worse yet as the new foreword to the paperback edition makes clear everything remains in place for a repeat performance july 30 1945 the heavy cruiser u s s indianapolis was sunk by a torpedo 1 196 men went into the water when rescue arrived five days later only 317 remained what happened during those five terrible days full of harrowing personal accounts from survivors and written by a veteran who served aboard the cruiser before the attack ordeal by sea chronicles the stark human drama and sensational aftermath of one of the worst disasters in naval history the story of the doomed mission was immortalized in the film jaws as quint remembers the intense brutal and awful experience of the sailors as sharks tore into the floating survivors thirst and hunger were also added to the sailors torments as they wondered if they would be rescued from the merciless sea their bravery and indomitable spirit is captured in this brilliant book a dramatic and gripping read
