resonant gaps examines the ways in which charles baudelaire exploited certain powers of figurative language while writing on music particularly that of richard wagner unlike many recent music literature studies margaret miner focuses less on the possible convergences of text and music than on their productive distances and divergences at the heart of this study is baudelaire s 1861 essay richard wagner et tannhauser à paris which is included in this volume in the french text of the 1861 dentu edition called a long meditated work of circumstance by its author richard wagner is the only piece of music criticism that baudelaire ever attempted despite the prominence of music as a theme and a metaphor throughout his writings in the essay says miner baudelaire strove to erase the distinction between reading about wagner s music and listening to it continually sidestepping expectations and evading classification baudelaire makes connections among musical understanding concrete or spatial distance and the abstract or conceptual distance between different arts miner discusses such topics related to baudelaire s project as his repertoire of textual and rhetorical maneuvers including italicization quotation personification digression and metaphor his assessment of the music s seductive ability to surround and suffuse the listener and the misunderstandings about and prejudices against wagner and his music that hampered its critical reception in france throughout her study miner also refers to similar literary undertakings by liszt nietzsche mallarmé and proust which involved the music of wagner and debussy miner argues that baudelaire s aim in attempting to lessen or suppress various distances that he discovers between his text and the music is not to freeze movement entirely but to inscribe his writing on wagner s music so that the two might travel together over an aesthetic landscape that shelters rather than separates them this book challenges and replaces the existing view of Mallarmé's mission to repossess music on behalf of poetic language traditionally this view focused on only the last fifteen years of the poet's life and sprang from a belief in Mallarmé's sudden awakening to music during an all-Wagner concert in Paris in 1885. Professor Heath Lees shows that Mallarmé's early knowledge and experience of music was much greater than commentators have realized and that the French poet actually began his writing career with the explicit aim of making music's performance language of effect the ground of his poetic expression. Integral to the argument is Mallarmé's reaction to the work and ideas of Richard Wagner whose impact on France came in two waves: the first broke during the tempestuous 1860s days of the Paris Tannhäuser while the second arrived in the mid 1880s and gave birth to the Revue Wagnerienne in refuting the critical literature that focuses on only the second of these waves. Lees shows that Mallarmé exhibited a highly informed Wagnerian background during the first wave and that his grasp of the composer's gestural motives and flexible musical prose led him towards a new kind of self-expressive gestural rhythm that aimed musically to reinvent poetic language. In support of this, the book examines closely what Wagner really said in the prose works that were becoming known in Paris by the 1860s, in particular Wagner's important French text La lettre sur la musique. It also re-examines Baudelaire's classic Wagner brochure and reveals its author's surprisingly firm grasp of Wagner's musico-poetic fusion in musically informed commentary. Professor Lees surveys the four decades of success and failure that resulted from Mallarmé's repeated attempts to draw out the musical gestures and resonances of words alone. In the process, he throws new light on many of Mallarmé's best-known texts hitherto judged difficult by those who have failed to
