Faulkner's final novel The Reivers has been gently dismissed by scholars and critics as no more than its subtitle claims: a reminiscence. Although the new millennium has seen a new appreciation for Faulkner's later novels, The Reivers is still perceived as a slightly fictionalized comic memoir romanticizing the early life of the author in the pre-civil rights American South. This volume takes this dismissal of The Reivers to task for failing to appreciate its employment of the Apuleian narrative of life-altering metamorphosis to offer, as his literary farewell, hope for humanity's self-redemption. Vernon I. Provencal studies the reception of The Golden Ass in The Reivers as comic novels of moral katabasis, wilful descent into the lawless underworld, and providential anabasis, societal and spiritual redemption. As the independent basis of the reception study, The Reivers receives its first ever detailed reading while The Golden Ass is read anew from the teleological perspective offered by the undervalued prophecy that in the end the comic hero would become the book itself.

This is the first collection of essays to offer a comprehensive analysis of and reflection on the major themes emergent in Jacques Lacan's seminars of 1955-56 and 1956-57. Seminar IV, 'The Object Relation' and Seminar V, 'Formations of the Unconscious', assessing the value of a clinical approach orientated around the question of the object-lack in the contemporary clinic. The book comprises 16 chapters which follow the development of a range of concepts elaborated by Lacan in these seminars, including sustained engagement with his critique of object relations theory. It considers the effectiveness of these early ideas in clinical practice in relation to hysteria, phobia, fetishism, obsessional neurosis, and of the so-called borderline case. Lacan's early concepts are also subjected to critique for engagement with queer theory and research in asexuality or the operation of the signifier-phallus. The chapters build to provide an invaluable resource to interpret and evaluate Lacan's early teaching and to find in his early concepts a fresh utility and scope for both clinical work and psychoanalytic research and enquiry. The book will be of great interest to Lacanian scholars and students as well as psychoanalytic therapists and analysts interested in Lacan's early work.
