Volume IV: The Irish Book in English 1800-1891 details the story of the book in Ireland during the nineteenth century when Ireland was integrated into the United Kingdom. The chapters in this volume explore book production and distribution and the differing of ways in which publishing existed in Dublin, Belfast and the provinces.

A celebration of the tenacious life of the enduring Irish classics, this book by one of Irish writing's most eloquent readers offers a brilliant and accessible survey of the greatest works since 1600 in Gaelic and English which together have shaped one of the world's most original literary cultures. In the course of his discussion of the great seventeenth and eighteenth century Gaelic poems of dispossession and of later work in that language that refuses to die, Declan Kiberd provides vivid and idiomatic translations that bring the Irish texts alive for the English speaking reader. Extending from the Irish poets who confronted modernity as a cataclysm and who responded by using traditional forms in novel and radical ways to the great modern practitioners of such paradoxically conservative and revolutionary writing, Kiberd's work embraces three sorts of Irish classics: those of awesome beauty and internal rigor such as works by the Gaelic bards Yeats, Synge, Beckett and Joyce; those that generate a myth so powerful as to obscure the individual writer and unleash an almost superhuman force such as the Cúchulainn story, the Lament for Art Ó Laoghaire and even Dracula; and those whose power exerts a palpable influence on the course of human action such as Swift's Drapier's Letters, the speeches of Edmund Burke or the autobiography of Wolfe Tone. The book closes with a moving and daring coda on the Anglo-Irish Agreement, claiming that the seeds of such a settlement were sown in the works of Irish literature. A delight to read throughout, Irish Classics is a fitting tribute to the works it reads so well and inspires us to read and read again.

Reprint of the original first published in 1873

Arranged chronologically by decade from the 1890s to the 1990s, each decade is divided into two different types of writing: critical documentary and imaginative writing, and is accompanied by a headnote which situates it thematically and chronologically the reader is also structured for thematic study by listing all the pieces included under a series of topic headings the wide range of material encompasses writings of well known figures in the irish canon and neglected writers alike this will appeal to the general reader but also makes irish writing in the twentieth century ideal as a core text providing a unique focus for detailed study in a single volume book jacket
