mitzi smith engages the reader in explaining how as in the real world the characterization of the others is used negatively in the biblical texts smith shows how the concept of difference is constructed in order to distinguish ourselves from proximate others indeed the other who is most similar to us is most threatening and most problematic the process of othering or otherness is a synthetic and political social construct that allows us to create and maintain boundaries between them and us thus this work demonstrates how proximate characters are constructed as the other in the acts of the apostles charismatics jews and women are proximate others who are constructed as the external and internal others the different demigods like ganesha and durga that are mentioned in reference to worship of the lord s abode and associates are the eternal associates of the lord in vaikuntha like visvakshena and others therefore they are not like the ganesha and durga of the material world demigods like ganesha and durga born of the material energy are different from them the illusory external energy has no jurisdiction in vaikuntha so what can be said of qualities like lust and greed that is why those forms of ganesha and others are manifest from the spiritual energy of the lord the mundane durga is a portion of yogamaya and hence under her control this spiritual energy yogamaya has engaged durga of the material world as her maidservant and entrusted her with the service of protecting mantras not as the predominating deity of service
