the 2020 presidential selection process is already underway as the political parties finalize their nominating rules and the states jostle for an advantageous contest date potential challengers are being identified and sized up by party insiders once again media and popular attention will be disproportionately focused on the candidates performance in the first and earliest of the state nominating contests and on how quickly the sequence of primaries and caucuses winnows the field and identifies the presumptive nominees but what are the implications of a sequential and front loaded nominating calendar that gives some voters outsized influence while leaving many others with a constrained choice or no choice in the selection of their party s presidential nominee reforming the presidential nominating process front loading s consequences and the national primary solution critiques the contemporary nominating process from the perspective of voters and their right to effectively participate in their parties selection of a presidential nominee employing both a common sense and legal rights based framework to invite a constitutionally grounded conversation on the legitimacy of the current presidential nominating process lisa k parshall argues that timing of participation in the nomination goes hand in hand with the right to choose a candidate and the fairest way to restore the promise of meaningful and timely participation for all voters is by adopting a same day national primary viewed from the party membership perspective this work illuminates the fundamental interests at stake that should be considered in any potential reform of the presidential nominating system of the lower court confirmation process is to examine the process itself she offers a new analytic framework for understanding when nominations become contested and shows when and how key actors can influence the fate of nominations and ultimately determine who will become a federal judge given the increasing salience of lower court decisions it is not surprising that interest groups and partisan agendas play an important role steigerwalt inventories the means by which senators push through or block nominations and why interest groups decide to support or oppose certain nominations the politics of judicial confirmations do not end there however steigerwalt also reveals how many nominees are blocked for private political reasons that have nothing to do with ideology while senators may use their support for or opposition to nominees as bargaining chips to garner votes for their positions on unrelated issues battle over the bench showcases the complex and at times hidden motivations driving the staffing of the federal bench
