immediately after its founding by hồ chí minh in september 1945 the democratic republic of vietnam (drv) faced challenges from rival vietnamese political organizations and from a france determined to rebuild her empire after the humiliations of wwii hồ with strategic genius courageous maneuver and good fortune was able to delay full scale war with france for sixteen months in the northern half of the country this was enough time for his communist party under the cover of its vietminh front organization to neutralize domestic rivals and install the rough framework of an independent state that fledgling state became a weapon of war when the drv and france finally came to blows in hanoi during december of 1946 marking the official beginning of the first indochina war with few economic resources at their disposal hồ and his comrades needed to mobilize an enormous and free contribution in manpower and rice from drv controlled regions extracting that contribution during the war's early days was primarily a matter of patriotic exhortation by the early 1950s however the infusion of weapons from the united states the soviet union and china had turned the indochina conflict into a total war hunger exhaustion and violence along with the conflict's growing political complexity challenged the drv leaders' mobilization efforts forcing patriotic appeals to be supplemented with coercion and terror this trend reached its revolutionary climax in late 1952 when hồ under strong pressure from stalin and mao agreed to carry out radical land reform in drv controlled areas of northern vietnam the regime's 1954 victory over the french at Điện Biên Phủ the return of peace and the division of the country into north and south did not slow this process of socialist transformation over the next six years 1954-1960 the drv's communist leaders raced through land reform and agricultural collectivization with a relentless sense of urgency mass mobilization in the democratic republic of vietnam 1945-1960 explores the way the exigencies of war the dreams of marxist-leninist ideology and the pressures of the cold war environment combined with pride and patriotism to drive totalitarian state formation in northern vietnam recounts the history of american involvement in vietnam from the end of world war ii to the present in 1955 ngo dinh diem organized an election to depose chief of state bao dai after which he proclaimed himself the first president of the newly created republic of vietnam the united states sanctioned the results of this election which was widely condemned as fraudulent and provided substantial economic aid and advice to the rvn because of this diem is often viewed as a mere puppet of the united states in service of its cold war geopolitical strategy that narrative jessica m chapman contends in cauldron of resistance grossly oversimplifies the complexity of south vietnam s domestic politics and indeed diem s own political savvy based on extensive work in vietnamese french and american archives chapman offers a detailed account of three crucial years 1953 1956 during which a new vietnamese political order was established in the south it is in large part a history of diem s political ascent as he managed to subdue the former emperor bao dai the armed hoa hao and cao dai religious organizations and the binh xuyen crime organization it is also an unparalleled account of these same outcast political powers forces that would reemerge as destabilizing political and military actors in the late 1950s and early 1960s chapman shows diem to be an engaged leader whose personalist ideology influenced his vision for the new south vietnamese state but also shaped the policies that would spell his demise washington s support for diem because of his staunch anticommunism encouraged him to employ oppressive measures to suppress dissent thereby contributing to the alienation of his constituency and helped inspire the organized opposition to his government that would emerge by the late 1950s and eventually lead to the vietnam war the first major synthesis of the war since 2001 drawing upon a host of newly declassified documents presidential tapes and overlooked foreign sources to give the most comprehensive look to date of the war that still haunts america this study of ten fateful decisions made on indochina between 1961 75 highlights the ascent of the civilian militarists and of strategy over diplomacy in united states policymaking and reveals the inexorably interlinked and escalating character of the decisions and the central purpose of american presidents not to have to face the expected domestic political consequences of defeat in indochina as a result we were led into a prolonged stalemate in which acting and the management of programs became a more important preoccupation than thinking about our purposes and values in which analysis become wholly subjective and therefore defective and in which decision making occurred in a closed system which did not allow for divergent inputs
