the bible argues this book may belong to the church or synagogue as an instrument of religious practice but as the object of academic study it belongs to the world as a whole confessional biblical studies belong to a discipline better termed scripture with biblical studies designating a discipline that imposes no religious conditions and includes any form of rational discourse about the bible a basic requirement of this discipline is to speak not of the bible but of bibles a number of exegetical studies suggest how a genuinely academic discourse about biblical writings distancing itself from received canons of interpretation can expose a subtext of deceit within the creation narratives reconceptualize the relationship of abraham and his deity reveal lament psalms as texts of oppression and identify the death of daniel's god in new chapters for this second edition davies evaluates how the film monty python's life of brian contributes to life of jesus research here is a challenge to conventional biblical scholarship and a bid to define and establish a genuine academic discipline of biblical studies

how can language learning in the formal context of the classroom contribute to the learners communicative competence whilst at the same time enhancing their general learning skills and preparing them for life long learning such a challenge is complex as is catering to the needs of individual students in a group learning context this book explores ways in which a traditional task based approach to language teaching can be extended to help students not only to become more skilful language users but to become more skillful learners in the process in the prevailing liberal ethos if there is one thing that is beyond the reach of others it is our body in particular and our person in general our legal and political tradition is such that we have the right to deny others access to our person and body even though doing so would harm those who need personal services from us or body parts however we lack the right to use ourselves as we wish in order to raise income even though we do not necessarily harm others by doing so even though we might in fact benefit them by doing so cécile fabre's aim in this book is to show that according to the principles of distributive justice which inform most liberal democracies both in practice and in theory it should be exactly the other way around that is if it is true that we lack the right to withhold access to material resources from those who need them we also lack the right to withhold access to our body from those who need it but we do under some circumstances have the right to decide how to use it in order to raise income more specifically she argues in favour of the confiscation of body parts and personal services as well as of the commercialization of organs sex and reproductive capacities
