why do people follow a leader particularly a religious leader is it because of personality or a particular vision or set of values or perhaps a felt need for direction or authority and why given that americans are still an overwhelmingly religious people is the clergy declining in influence sherwin argues that what is missing is the perception that religious leaders today are capable of working wonders sherwin supports his claim by showing that throughout the history of the jewish people certain leaders were regarded as having wonder working ability this was an essential feature of a holy person sherwin leads the reader through five periods of jewish history the era of biblical prophets jesus and first century israel babylonian rabbis of the third and fourth centuries the east european hasidic masters of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries and twentieth century north african rabbis in all cases the moral authority of the leaders came primarily from popular belief in their power to work wonders for the people sherwin applies history to the current situation if the clergy is to be re empowered to reclaim leadership and authority as holy people they must reassert the ability to work wonders this does not require dramatic miracles but deeds that might well be perceived by people as nothing short of miraculous saving a marriage finding someone a job finding homes for the homeless bringing hope to the hopeless this is a book that every member of the clergy and every religious leader should read ponder and take to heart macintyre is greatly discontented with the nature of contemporary morality which according to him has a form i e what appears like morality but lacks essential content he argues that the most common feature of contemporary ethical discourse is that much of it is used to express individual preferences which leads to disagreements among philosophers and eventually results in debates that are interminable in character macintyre attributes the cause of this situation to the activities of the enlightenment philosophers of the 17th and 18th centuries who in an attempt to find rational justification for morality repudiated those essential elements that define the essence of morality and give it its contents such elements include historical narrative tradition teleology and divine law in macintyres opinion morality so constructed was destined for failure since it was not founded on the true nature of the human person the obvious consequences of this failure were the birth of diverse post enlightenment ethical theories and a substantial change in the conception of virtue in order to remedy this deplorable condition of contemporary ethics macintyre along with other virtue ethicists advocates a certain renaissance of ethical principles that are founded on the true nature of the human person characterized by historical narrative tradition and teleology all grounded on divine legislation morality thus reconstructed finds its fullest expression in the theory of human character traits i e virtues this is what has motivated macintyres construction of virtue theory which has brought him into confrontation with the enlightenment philosophers our study and analysis of macintyres theory of virtue reveals that his account of virtue is inadequate this inadequacy is what has motivated our own project of reconstructing macintyres theory of virtue in view of offering an account of virtue that is adequate in this way our own project complements that of macintyre
