this book is a critical introduction to j r r tolkien s the hobbit but it also advances an argument about the novel in the context of tolkien s larger literary and philosophical project notwithstanding its canonical place in the fantasy genre the hobbit is ultimately a historical novel it does not refer directly to any real historical events but it both enacts and conceptualizes history in a way that makes it real drawing on marxist literary criticism and narrative theory this book examines the form and content of tolkien s work demonstrating how the heroic romance is simultaneously employed and subverted by tolkien in his tale of an unlikely hero quite a little fellow in a wide world who nonetheless makes history first time readers of tolkien as well as established scholars and fans will enjoy this engaging and accessible study of the hobbit with a new introduction by the author peter jackson s film version of j r r tolkien s lord of the rings trilogy and the accompanying rings related paraphernalia and publicity has played a unique role in the dissemination of tolkien s imaginative creation to the masses yet for most readers and viewers the underlying meaning of middle earth has remained obscure bradley birzer has remedied that with this fresh study in j r r tolkien s sanctifying myth understanding middle earth birzer reveals the surprisingly specific religious symbolism that permeates tolkien s middle earth legendarium he also explores the social and political views that motivated the oxford don ultimately situating tolkien within the christian humanist tradition represented by thomas more and t s eliot dante and c s lewis birzer argues that through the genre of myth tolkien created a world that is essentially truer than the one we think we see around us everyday a world that transcends the colorless disenchantment of our postmodern age the doctoral thesis argues that the term subcreation with its revised and broadened definition in part differing from j r r tolkien s original term sub creation may be used for the discussion of the making of fictional worlds in literary discourse the successful conception of a fictional world depends on the reader s willing suspension of disbelief this depends both on the author and his skilled composition of the world and all its aspects as well as on the reader s acceptance of this invented fictional world the author needs to create a narrative with an inner consistency which is crucial to achieving the effect of the reader s immersion in the fictional world the fundamental aspects that an author needs to realize to achieve successful subcreation have been structured into and analysed in four categories language and linguistic variation physiopoeia anthropoeia and mythopoeia furthermore this thesis shows that as contemporary examples of fantastic literature both tad williams s and terry pratchett s fictional worlds are successfully created through the realization of these aspects of subcreation apart from commenting on the success of the subcreative process this thesis also remarks upon the cultural influences both authors include in their writings while both may be considered anglophone in a general categorization pratchett s discworld retains a feeling of britishness that is not to be found in williams s otherland the thesis proposes several approaches to subcreation that may be studied subsequently so for example it may be possible to determine the success of an author s subcreation by collecting empirical data apart from literary works this field of studies may also include other media this book opens up new perspectives on the english fantasy writer j r r tolkien arguing that he was an influential thinker of utopianism in 20th century fiction and that his scrutiny of utopias can be assessed through his dialogue with antiquity tolkien s engagement with the ancient world often reflects an interest in retrotopianism his fictional places cities forests homes draw on a rich post classical narrative imagination of similar spaces importantly for tolkien such narratives entail eutopian thought experiments the decline and fall of distinctly classical communities provide an utopian blueprint for future political restorations the home as oikos becomes a space where an ideal ethical reciprocity between host and guest can be sought the ancient forest is an ambiguous unsettling site where characters can experience necessary forms of awakening from these perspectives tokens of platonic moderation augustan restoration homeric xenophilia and the ovidian material sublime are evident in tolkien s writing likewise his retrotopianism also always entails a rewriting of ancient narratives in post classical and modern terms this study then explores how tolkien s use of the classical past can help us to align classical and utopian studies and thus to reflect on the ranges and limits of utopianism in classical literature and thought
