during the 20 year history of the european network for religious education through contextual approaches enreca several books have been published on the subject of religious education from sociological psychological or anthropological perspectives and always in the contextual settings of national educational frameworks and other specific culturally bound phenomena also very often an international comparative perspective was included the shared goal was not so much to reflect on religion as such and

on its changing doctrines institutions and prescriptions but to try and understand religion in the specific european contexts of secularization and the plurality of life orientations and to understand how religion becomes manifest in education in a variety of concrete policies and classroom practices reflecting various social issues this volume marking the 20th anniversary of enreca has a specific focus on the contextual dimension of time this publication deals with a biblical theology of life based on the new testament it forms the second of a two volume publication on a biblical theology of life these two volumes trace the concept of life throughout protestant canon working with the final form of the biblical books in hebrew vol 5 and greek vol 6 scripture this is done by providing the reader with a book by book overview of this concept this book concludes with a final chapter synthesising the findings of the respective investigations of the old and new testament corpora in order to provide a summative theological perspective of the development of the concept through scripture it is clear that life forms a central and continuous theme throughout the biblical text the theme begins with the living god that creates life but is shortly followed by death that threatens life despite this threat god sustains life and awakens life from death the text concludes with the consummation depicting eternal life in the new heaven and earth the biblical theological approach that has been taken entails a thematic approach as it investigates the concept of life with contextual foci on what individual books of scripture teach about life joined diachronically with an investigation of the progressive use of the concept of life in scripture while providing a theology of scripture as a whole investigating the concept of life in all sixty six books of the protestant canon reimagining the war memorial reinterpreting the great war the formats of british commemorative fiction is an in depth analysis of the role of british war memorials in literature and film in the wider context of the commemorative trend in contemporary culture the sheffield city battalion memorial the menin gate memorial the thiepval memorial to the missing of the somme the royal artillery memorial and the shot at dawn memorial are the focus of the discussion which aims to show how the meanings assigned to specific war memorials create ideologically diverse interpretations of the British experience of the Great War ranging from the futility myth to the imperial sublime. The epistemological ambivalence of the war memorial lies at the heart of the analysis of the selected novels, films and plays for the condemnation of a military conflict as a historical evil does not necessarily exclude the possibility of honouring the men who fought in it.

Five teacher scholars examine in a series of papers written over several years what it means to teach to work together to seek new forms of curriculum and to engage in interpretive inquiry. Some of the metaphors that surfaced in their conversations and writing are education as journey, language as meaning and teacher as pilgrim. Themes that grew out of their dialogue about these metaphors and their implications for curriculum and teaching include the meaning of questioning, alienation, detour, caring and dwelling.

This book closely examines the pedagogical possibilities of integrating the arts into history curriculum at the secondary and post-secondary levels. Students encounter expressions of history every day in the form of fiction, paintings and commemorative art as well as other art forms. Research demonstrates it is often these more informal encounters with history that define students' knowledge and understandings rather than the official accounts present in school curricula. This volume will provide educators with tools to bring together these parallel tracks of history education to help enrich students' understandings and as a mechanism for students to present their own emerging historical perspectives.
