most theology proceeds under the assumption that divine grace works on human beings at the points of our supposed uniqueness among earth's creatures our freedom our self awareness our language or our rationality inner animalities turns this assumption on its head arguing that much theological anthropology contains a deeply anti ecological impulse the book draws creatively on historical and scriptural texts to imagine an account of human life centered in our creaturely commonality the tendency to deny our own human animality leaves our self understanding riven with contradictions disavowals and repressions how are human relationships transformed when god draws us into communion through our instincts our desires and our bodily needs meyer argues that humanity's exceptional status is not the result of divine endorsement but a delusion of human sin where the work of god knits human beings back into creaturely connections ecological degradation is no longer just a matter of bodily life and death but a matter of ultimate significance bringing a theological perspective to the growing field of critical animal studies inner animalities puts gregory of nyssa and karl rahner in conversation with jacques derrida giorgio agamben kelly oliver and cary wolfe what results is not only a counterintuitive account of human life in relation with nonhuman neighbors but also a new angle into ecological theology in conceiving his architectural masterpiece the goetheanum in dornach switzerland rudolf steiner designed a large wooden model featuring three main figures to be placed in a central position in the building known as the representative of humanity the sculpture shows christ in the center standing and holding a balance between the beings of lucifer and ahriman who represent polar tendencies of expansion and contraction on new year's eve 1922 the goetheanum was destroyed by fire but the model still in the process of being sculpted and housed in an external studio escaped the flames it remains intact in the second goetheanum where the public may view it with numerous full color photos and illustrations this book offers a vivid introduction to this monumental historic artwork we follow the evolution of the statue through the photographic documentation of many models created during its development from six smaller versions to a full size model which is also still on display the authors offer impressive insights into the artists detailed intentions which were repeatedly revised by rudolf steiner the book demonstrates the continual spiritual movement evident in the whole series of small models and the metamorphic processes that developed over an eight year period the representative of humanity offers indications about the realm and content from which the statue arose the environment in which it is situated and the artists who created it rudolf steiner and the sculptor edith maryon they also examine the intentions behind this work of art which addresses the destiny of humankind
