of solidarity in uk social welfare here then perhaps is a british version of solidarity in social welfare but early there are strong tensions between the powerfully liberal individualistic strands of the british understanding of the functions of the state and the socialistic or communitarian tendency of a commitment to universal welfare provision in the search for the roots of this understanding of welfare we shall survey first the historical background to these tensions in some early british political philosophers starting with hobbes and ending with mill we then consider the philosophical and social influences on the beveridge report itself and we will trace the emergence of the philosophy of the welfare state in the era following the second world war finally we consider the contemporary debate as it relates to the third way thinking of new labour 2 a historical sketch in the previous section we observed that the philosophy underlying the beveridge report could be described as liberal collectivism what are the historical antecedents of this strange amalgam of individualism and collectivism within the short scope of this chapter any account of the philosophical history must be little more than a sketch but we can perhaps understand most debates in british socio political thought as a continuing dialogue with the well known claim of thomas hobbes in leviathan that all political institutions are founded on egoistic motives the 1948 declaration of human rights demanded a collaboration among exponents from around the world embodying many different cultural perspectives it was driven by a like minded belief in the importance of finding common principles that would be essential for the very survival of civilization although an arduous and extensive process the result was a much sought after and collective endeavor that would be referenced for decades to come motivated by the seventieth anniversary of the 1948 universal declaration of human rights and enriched by the contributions of eminent scholars this volume aims to be a reflection on human rights and their universality the underlying question is whether or not after seventy years this document can be considered universal or better yet how to define the concept of universality we live in an age in which this notion seems to be guided not so much by the values that the subject intrinsically perceives as good but rather by the demands of the subject universality is thus no longer deduced by something that is objectively given within the shared praxis conversely what seems to have to be universal is what we want to be valid for everyone this volume will be of interest to those currently engaged in research or studying in a variety of fields including philosophy politics and law thematic nature mapping various experiences on the public role of women in the mediterranean context in particular the book relates the two sides observing affinities and differences in the affirmation of women s agency this synoptic approach avoids essentialist contraposition and dialectic between different cultural religious and political universes and emphasizes the role of a common geopolitical space where women s agency is playing an increasingly decisive role in the building and defense of constitutional democratic political systems the reflection is enriched by the specific analysis of the role of a religious factor in the process of affirmation or in contrast as a restraint on women s agency the book focuses both on the role of women believers in the processes of transformation of the political contexts of the north african and euro mediterranean area and on the role of women within religions questioning from inside the patriarchal traditions of the latter the book applies a multidisciplinary approach to the theme of women s agency in which law sociology theology and philosophy interact with each other as such it will be a valuable resource for those working in the areas of human rights law law and religion socio legal studies and gender studies
