The years following the attacks of September 11 2001 have seen the publication of a wide range of scientific analyses of terrorism literary studies seem to lag curiously behind this general shift of academic interest the present volume sets out to fill this gap it does so in the conviction that the study of literature has much to offer to the transdisciplinary investigation of terror not only with respect to the present post 9/11 situation but also with respect to earlier historical contexts literary texts are media of cultural self reflection and as such they have always played a crucial role in the discursive response to terror both contributing to and resisting dominant conceptions of the causes motivations dynamics and aftermath of terrorist violence by bringing together experts from various fields and by combining case studies of works from diverse periods and national literatures the volume literature and terrorism chooses a diachronic and comparative perspective it is interested in the specific cultural work performed by narrative and dramatic literature in the face of terrorism focusing on literature's ambivalent relationship to other competing modes of discourse today interviews proliferate everywhere in newspapers on television and in anthologies as a method they are a major tool of medicine the law the social sciences oral history projects and journalism and in the book trade interviews with authors are a major promotional device we live in an interview society how did this happen what is it about the interview form that we find so appealing and horrifying are we all just gossips or is there something more to it what are the implications of our reliance on this bizarre dynamic for publicity subjectivity and democracy literature and the rise of the interview addresses these questions from the perspective of literary culture the book traces the ways in which the interview form has been conceived and deployed by writers and interviewing has been understood as a literary critical practice it excavates what we might call a poetics of the interview form and practice in so doing it covers 150 years and four continents it includes a diverse rostrum of well known writers such as Henry James T. S. Eliot Ezra Pound Djuna Barnes William Burroughs Philip Roth J. M. Coetzee and Toni Morrison while reintroducing some individuals that history has forgotten such as Betty Ross Queen of Interviewers and Julian Hawthorne Nathaniel's Profligate Son together these stories expose the interview's position in the literary imagination and consider what this might tell us about
