domestic abuse is a horror it lurks beneath the surface of our collective existence sometimes raising its ugly head where least expected in the church or within families of faith are we individually or collectively ready to respond what can or should congregations and their pastoral leaders do and as we survey the christian landscape across the united states and canada are we as the community of faith stepping up to the challenge presented by violence in the family there is no easy answer to the problems that surface when abuse impacts the christian family but each of the authors contributing to this volume believes fervently that it is imperative that followers of jesus and their spiritual shepherds respond to the cries for help to respond well necessitates both knowledge and a willingness to act this book is here to help it represents a collective effort to bring all of us a step farther in our journey of walking with christ over a sea of troubled waters none of us know as much as we should but all of us can learn from one another throughout the collection we provide an opportunity to examine a diversity of perspectives with the hope that each will in some way advance our understanding of the complexity of domestic violence issues in our midst within our churches and the communities where our churches minister christian ideas on family religion and the home in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries the cult of domesticity has often been linked to the privatization of religion and the idealisation of the motherly ideal of the angel in the house this book revisits the christian home of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries and sheds new light on the stereotypical distinction between the private and public spheres and their inhabitants emphasizing the importance of patriarchal domesticity during the period and the frequent blurring of boundaries between the christian home and modern society the case studies included in this volume call for a more nuanced understanding of nineteenth and twentieth century christian ideas on family religion and the home this book explores what it means to be and become at home in theological perspective located in the context of a youth club drawing on ethnographic research phoebe hill presents an account of what an authentic christian hospitality could look like in a youth setting and the ways in which the young people the strangers at the door might enable the christian youth worker to become more fully at home discourses around christian hospitality often unwittingly perpetuate implicit power imbalances the youth club offers a context for christian hospitality that tips the power in favour of the young people who attend enabling the youth leaders to share and create home with young people in a distinctive way as young people leave the church in droves the church faces the urgent and daunting task of finding new ways of being with young people on their own terms this book offers one solution hill argues that homecoming is an essential task of humanity we are connected in this common pilgrimage and the need to find places and spaces where we can be at home becoming at home may be harder than ever before numerous sociological philosophical and theological factors are compromising our ability to dwell in the contemporary world in january 2004 a newly founded evangelical organization called pasch was formed the word denotes the passover or time of new beginnings when god kept people safe in their own homes before leading them into freedom from abuse and oppression yet the word pasch also stands for peace and safety in the christian home pasch began as a small group of therapists sociologists domestic violence experts clergy biblical scholars survivors and dedicated christians in essence pasch was born out of the cries confusion and frustration of the people of god as we encountered many horrifying situations of domestic abuse in christian homes those of us who seek to address various aspects of the issue concluded that we needed a fellowship of concerted study prayer and action it was the dream of catherine clark kroeger that an edited book might emerge from the 2005 and 2006 pasch conferences in order that the papers presentations and discussions might be widely available we found that to make that happen we needed to work together that each of us possessed one piece of the puzzle and that by god s grace we could collectively begin to put the pieces together the topic of abuse is ugly which is why so many christians shy away from discussing it but in this volume we have tried to present an accurate faith based analysis of abuse in the christian family context we hope that various chapters stimulate discussion sometimes debate and in so doing prompt pastor and people to action we call on you the reader to consider the various ideas and perspectives offered throughout the book hopefully each chapter will prompt you to consider afresh how you conceptualize violence among families of faith like you the reader the contributors to our collection come from various faith traditions work in different contexts and see the issue in part based on their own narrative and training yet despite our differences and our ongoing debates we are unanimous that violence has no place in the home every home should be a safe place every home a shelter when abuse occurs in families of faith it is the responsibility of the church to offer compassion and support to victims and to call those who act abusively to accountability and justice our edited collection includes dan allender speaking from the heart about the impact of the fall on relationships between men and women al miles reflecting on his pastoral experience of the difficulties and opportunities of speaking out against violence in christian families bruce and karen mcandless davis offering one couple s story of the long journey toward accountability and dramatic change julie owens retelling her own dramatic story of abuse the life imprisonment of her ex partner and what she wished every pastor knew about domestic violence
