the field of socio legal research has encountered three fundamental challenges over the last three decades it has been criticized for paying insufficient attention to legal doctrine for failing to develop a sound theoretical foundation and for not keeping pace with the effects of the increasing globalization and internationalization of law state and society this book examines these three challenges from a methodological standpoint it addresses the first two by demonstrating that legal sociology has much to say about justice as a kind of social experience and has always engaged theoretically with forms of normativity albeit on its own empirical terms rather than on legal theory s analytical terms the book then explores the third challenge a result of the changing nature of society by highlighting the move from the industrial relations of early modernity to the post industrial conditions of late modernity an age dominated by information technology it poses the question whether socio legal research has sufficiently reassessed its own theoretical premises regarding the relationship between law state and society so as to grasp the new social and cultural forms of organization specific to the twenty first century s global societies international arbitration has developed into a global system of adjudication dealing with disputes arising from a variety of legal relationships between states between private commercial actors and between private and public entities it operates to a large extent according to its own rules and dynamics a transnational justice system rather independent of domestic and international law in response to its growing importance and use by disputing parties international arbitration has become increasingly institutionalized professionalized and judicialized at the same time it has gained significance beyond specific disputes and indeed contributes to the shaping of law arbitrators have therefore become not only adjudicators but transnational lawmakers this has raised concerns over the legitimacy of international arbitration practising virtue looks at international arbitration from the inside with an emphasis on its transnational character instead of concentrating on the national and international law governing international arbitration it focuses on those who practise international arbitration in order to understand how it actually works what its sources of authority are and what demands of legitimacy it must meet putting those who practise arbitration into the centre of the system of international arbitration allows us to appreciate the way in which they contribute to the development of the law they apply this book invites eminent arbitrators to reflect on the actual practice of international arbitration and its contribution to the transnational justice system
