first published in 1987 handwriting reviews theory and research on handwriting and on children who have handwriting problems and draws out principles and recommendations for practitioners the practitioners will include teachers educational advisors psychologists and occupational and physical therapists there has been a revival in the teaching of the basic school skills of reading writing and number surprisingly however there are very few books concerning the manipulative skills of handwriting and this book seeks to fill this major gap while much of the book is concerned with the development and teaching of handwriting skills in ordinary children it also gives detailed consideration to the problems encountered by children with physical disabilities this is an interesting read for students of education the purpose of the book is to review theory and research on handwriting and on children who have handwriting problems and draw up principles and recommendations for practitioners a guide to the use of victorian modern cursive with new advice which places the teaching of handwriting within current literacy teaching and learning contexts covers also what students need to know about handwriting assessment and monitoring of handwriting development and implementation of a handwriting program tradition has dominated the teaching of hand writing as it has no other school study it has been the last of the so called formal subjects to be influenced by the newer educational thought aside from the notable but temporary controversy as to vertical or slant writing the pedagogy of penmanship has scarcely been an important concern in educational discussion not until quite recently have we really had any important professional publications upon the subject the result has been a tardy development of economical and efficient methods of teaching children to write this latest volume of the register of educational research in the united kingdom lists all the major research projects being undertaken in britain during the latter months of 1992 the whole of 1993 and 1994 and the early months of 1995 each entry provides names and addresses of the researchers a detailed abstract the source and amount of the grant where applicable the length of the project and details of published material about the research
