when newly married sarah smith arrived in beirut in 1834 she was appalled by the ignorance and ill treatment of arab women and girls well educated for her times she was not content just to keep house for her missionary husband rather having taught mohegan indians in connecticut she in her two remaining years opened a small school for girls that began the transformation of education for arab females sarah s pioneering venture inspired a series of protestant sisters married and single to follow in her wake as missionary teachers leaving loved ones and the comforts of home behind they crossed two perilous seas learned arabic and against great odds continued her work in elementary and then secondary and higher education sarah s posthumous memoir was widely read but the stories of her sisters were little known until now here they are linked in an extraordinary chain of educational achievements despite religious strife civil war epidemics famine isolation and finally a world war pandemic and global depression regrettably many sisters like sarah paid the ultimate price and were buried abroad as long as any girls anywhere are denied an education these stories can inspire teachers of girls and advocates for female education worldwide to persevere and hopefully coeds at lebanese american university will be inspired and motivated to excel knowing that your university goes back to mrs smith s beirut female school and that you are the direct beneficiaries of sarah and her sisters covers the period from 1790 to 1905 in the times of london this book discusses 20th and 21st centuries literary retellings of biblical texts focusing on how fiction and poetry fill the extant narrative gaps present in the often sparse biblical accounts and align the narratives with theological and or cultural expectations of modern interpreting communities the chapters written by an international group of scholars explore biblical retellings in a variety of modern languages ranging from korean and chinese to hebrew and arabic most of the contributions deal with retellings of the narrative books genesis exodus judges ruth 1 2 samuel daniel but a few are devoted to prophetic hosea and poetic psalms ones another set of articles looks beyond specific biblical books and instead analyses how the bible has been retold in different literary genres children and ya literature sci fi and fantasy christian inspiration fiction and in modern political discourse north and south korea all the chapters further highlight how literary retellings of the bible form two way movements they reveal the often subversive quality of literary retellings retellings not only emphasise those nuances in the biblical texts that create unease but also problematise their standpoint and question their moral and theological message the hebrew bible in contemporary fiction and poetry is suitable for students and scholars of biblical studies working on intertextuality and reception history it is also of interest to those working on comparative literature particularly with regards to the hebrew bible in popular culture and literature
