in mistakes of moses robert green ingersoll presents a compelling critique of the biblical figure challenging established religious doctrines through a rational lens this work exemplifies ingersoll s distinctive literary style characterized by eloquent prose and incisive wit as he navigates the intersection of religion morality and human experience set against the backdrop of 19th century america a period marked by rising secularism and intellectual inquiry ingersoll dares to question the veracity of the scriptures in a way that both informs and provokes thoughtful discourse inviting readers to reconsider traditional narratives surrounding moses and the foundations of faith ingersoll a prominent orator and advocate for freethought was deeply influenced by the enlightenment ideals of reason and scientific inquiry throughout his career as one of the most celebrated agnostics of his era he utilized his keen intellect and personal experiences including the loss of his loved ones to drive home his conviction that belief should be founded on evidence rather than dogma mistakes of moses represents a culmination of his challenges to ecclesiastical authority and societal norms reflecting his broader philosophy that promotes inquiry over blind faith this thought provoking treatise is highly recommended for those seeking a deeper understanding of religious critiques and the evolution of secular thought whether you re a scholar of religious studies a seeker of truth or simply curious about the interplay of faith and reason ingersoll s incisive analysis provides a timely relevant examination that resonates with contemporary debates over morality belief and the human condition art truth and time is a book which endeavours to show that artistic creation depends as much upon the body as it does the soul and the soul s intelligent use of the body s way of understanding when there occurs a complete disjunction between the two as occurs in much of contemporary art art is stripped of its inherent beauty its wholeness in this book the author considers the nature of art from its earliest manifestations to the present day endeavouring to show that its truth transcends time and place through the unity of soul and body and man s awareness of this unity not a barren unity but a unity which is profoundly creative this volume features new research about the philosophy of plant intelligence and plant cognition one of the most intriguing and complex current debates at the intersection of biology cognitive science and philosophy the debate about plant cognition is marked by deep disagreements some theorists are confident that the empirical evidence supports the ascription of cognitive capacities to plants others hold that such claims are overblown and defend more traditional non cognitive accounts of plant behavior still others seek to formulate intermediate positions this volume brings together leading researchers from across this theoretical spectrum to tackle the foundational questions that are at issue in the debate about plant cognition the contributions focus on the philosophical questions raised by recent discoveries and controversies in the empirical sciences such as can plants be said to have genuine cognitive abilities can they be characterized as representing or perceiving their environment as pursuing goals or even as having some form of conscious experience which data could provide evidence for such characterizations and what are possible implications of these issues for general questions about the nature of cognition representation perception and consciousness philosophy of plant shallow subterranean habitats sshs are areas of habitable space that are less than 10 m in depth from the surface these range from large areas such as shallow caves and lava tubes to tiny areas such as cracks in ceilings or spaces in soil whilst being very different in many ways they are often bound together by shared characteristics of the habitats and their faunas and their study can help us to understand subterranean habitats in general this book concentrates on the more typical sshs of intermediate size seepage springs spaces between rocks cracks in lava etc describing the habitats their fauna and the ecological and evolutionary questions posed similarities and differences between the habitats are considered and discussed in a broader ecological and evolutionary context the book is mainly aimed at students and researchers in the field of subterranean biology but will also be of interest to a wider range of ecologists evolutionary biologists freshwater biologists and conservationists there will also be an audience of environmental professionals concern for the world today provides the impetus to ask of ourselves a profound question how can our way of knowing the very style of our thinking which informs our research and our teaching come to express care to reveal itself to be a deed and duty of care basing this practical study on the human quality of care for the world around us nigel hoffmann takes us to a threshold beyond which lies a true science of living form care he says springs from the whole human being the thinking heart and will and is implicit in the scientific method of conscious inner participation in nature that derives from the work of the poet and scientist goethe the goethean approach a living form that unites science and art is not an alternative to contemporary science but complements it artistic practice says hoffmann is a guide across the threshold and into the sphere of the living whole but artistic sensibility can be raised to a higher possibility of itself allowing us to discover the faculties of cognitive feeling and cognitive will the author calls for a grounding in goethean science for all students as a preliminary to their specialist and professional studies he introduces us to the concept of the metamorphosis of the university from the doctoral ideal to the ideal of the whole human being and concludes with a case study of the economic sphere and capital using goethean methodology this profound book indicates a transformative path for human culture and civilization in the 21st century edward grant describes the extraordinary range of themes ideas and arguments that constituted scholastic cosmology for approximately five hundred years from around 1200 to 1700 primary emphasis is placed on the world as a whole what might lie beyond it and the celestial region which extended from the moon to the outermost convex surface of the cosmos in a focused assessment of one of the founding members of the liberal tradition in philosophy and a self proclaimed under labourer working to support the scientific revolution of the seventeenth century the author maps the full range of john locke s highly influential ideas which even today remain at the heart of debates about the nature of reality and our knowledge of it as well as our moral and political rights and duties comprehensive introduction to the full range of locke s ideas providing an up to date account that acknowledges issues raised by recent scholarship over the past decade a well rounded perspective on one of the intellectual giants of the western philosophical tradition provides detailed coverage of locke s two key works an essay concerning human understanding and the two treatises of government a sophisticated analysis by a highly respected academic a vital addition to the blackwell great minds series this new study of david hume s philosophy of mathematics critically examines his objections to the concept of infinity and his alternative phenomenalist theory of space and time as constituted by minima sensibilia or sensible extensionless indivisibles how can we understand what we do not know how can we comprehend what is outside our experience god is holy we are sinful god is all powerful and all knowing and perfect love and we are not he knows us completely and it is the desire of his heart for his children to know him the best teachers will patiently lead students one step at a time using what students do know to increase their understanding of what they need to learn god is the master teacher god reveals himself to his children in the bible and in everyday experiences using what they do understand to help them learn the truth about who he is he takes what is familiar to them and says at least in some ways i am like that it is not enough to have knowledge of what god said we must have understanding of what he wants us to learn examine thirteen metaphors god uses to describe himself and find deeper understanding of this god who wants you to know him this book describes the profound insights on life itself that this traumatic yet positive life changing experience had on grandpa john a realization that we are mere mortals living a life of immortality and a realization that life needs a reckoning of those important things that we know but that we don't really understand because we have never personalized them each profound and insightful chapter is dedicated to a specific life topic as goethe put it all truly wise thoughts have been thought already thousands of times but to make them truly ours we must think them over again honestly until they take root in our personal experience the work studies under different physical conditions the carrier contribution to elastic constants in heavily doped optoelectronic materials in the presence of intense photon field the authors apply the heisenberg uncertainty principle to formulate electron statistics many open research problems are discussed and numerous potential applications as quantum sensors and quantum cascade lasers are presented for five thousand years the politician and the priest have been in the same business in this provocative volume osho invites us to look through his microscope and examine not only the profound influence of religion and politics in society but also its influence in our inner world to the extent we have internalized and adopted as our own the values and belief systems of the powers that be he says we have boxed ourselves in imprisoned ourselves and tragically crippled our vision of what is possible from occupy wall street to the arab spring from the election of the first black president in the united states to the appointment of a new pope who promises to use st francis of assisi as a role model following endless scandals involving child abuse the roles of priests and politicians in our public life have recently captured the attention of our times often just initiating another round of hope and subsequent disillusionment in other words wittingly or unwittingly we keep digging ourselves deeper into the mess we are in a new kind of world is possible but only if we understand clearly how the old has functioned up to now and based on that understanding take the responsibility and the courage to become a new kind of human being you have to be aware who the real criminals are the problem is that those criminals are thought to be great leaders sages saints mahatmas so i have to expose all these people because they are the causes for example it is easier to understand that perhaps politicians are the causes of many problems wars murders massacres burning people it is more difficult when it comes to religious leaders because nobody has raised his hand against them they have remained respectable for centuries and as time goes on their respectability goes on growing the most difficult job for me is to make you aware that these people knowingly or unknowingly that does not matter have created this world
