does the apostle paul have any use for the person of jesus presented in the gospels critical scholarship thinks not but this book argues that paul not only mentions more than seventy specific details of the historical jesus but he also commends the character of jesus and echoes his teachings repeatedly in his letters and sermons in full agreement with the gospel accounts stout examines paul s intriguing description of the man christ jesus 1 tim 2 5 and suggests that this title fulfills the ot expectation of god appearing in human history as a man in his incarnated humanity the man christ jesus accomplished salvation in the historical events of his life and death and in his resurrected humanity he appeared to paul on the damascus road rooting paul s christology deeply in human experience furthermore stout shows how paul rests his concept of salvation on a neglected aspect of his doctrine that the entire church is associated with the historical events of the life death and resurrection of jesus an association which also unites his church with one another in fellowship and service this book then demonstrates that paul s gospel rests upon jesus as a man of history who brings salvation into human history in his life death and exaltation as the man christ jesus will people of other faiths be saved and to what extent should the response to this question shape christian engagements with people of other faiths historically the predominant answer to these questions has been that the person of another faith will not be saved and is therefore in need of conversion to christianity for their salvation to be possible consequently it has been understood to be the obligation of christian persons to convert people of other faiths more recent theologies of religions for the past half century and more have sought to reconsider these approaches to soteriology this has sometimes led to a reaffirmation of the status quo and at other times to an alternative soteriological understanding in seeking to articulate soteriologies that make logical and doctrinal sense too often these new approaches to salvation and people of other faiths have paid little attention to questions of practice drawing on alternative understandings of soteriology as deification healing and liberation each perspective having ancient roots in the christian tradition it is argued that salvation can be understood as form of concrete earthly practice understood in this way this book considers how these alternative theologies of salvation might shape christian practices in a way that departs from a history in which the person of another faith has been perceived as a threat to christianity and therefore in need of conversion further it asks how the complex multi faith world of the twenty first century might better inform and shape the way in which christian theologies frame soteriological understandings paul did not write a systematic theology or specific church doctrines when he wrote romans his audience was roman christians and his last will was to preach the gospel to all especially gentiles in spain through this letter paul wants to pave the way for a visit to rome and expects their support on his mission trip to spain the question is this what kind of the gospel does he want to share with them traditionally the letter has been read from the perspective of forensic salvation that an individual justification occurs once and for all by faith in christ this view remains with the so called new perspective on paul and christ s faithfulness has not been explored rereading the letter with a renewed concept of the good news in the letter this book challenges the traditional reading of romans and explores paul s threefold gospel that features the gospel that is god centered christ exemplified and christian imitated his main concern is how gentiles can become children of god as well as how jews may live faithfully in christ in romans the good news is the power of god for salvation to everyone who has faith it is not a set of knowledge about god or jesus paul is eager to share this gospel of faith with the roman christians and to correct some misunderstandings about him since his gospel is viewed as anti jewish or antinomian
